“ Charlie was a leader among men. He shared his knowledge with all that were interested in gleaming the jewels of his trade. Charlie knew more about life than just pipefitting. He interacted with people on a one on one basis. Charlie has left many memories and wonderful experiences with the people he came in contact with. In fact he will live on thru those of us that will remember him. I can hear him now, "There is an easier way to do that. If you'd like I'll show you!" Then he would demonstrate how to make things easier. Many still in the pipe fitting or welding trades will remember Charlie as they pass through life. Generations to come will benefit from the person that Charlie was. May God Bless each of You with a special memory! Share the good times you had with him!
