“ He was a great father and a grandfather. He loved his children and grandchildren very much and did everything he possibly could until his untimely death. He has helped the churches on many occasions and even donated his last left over furniture and television to a Home for the Elders in Sri Lanka. He spent lavishly for the betterment of others putting his ownself at risk. In short, he was a person who enjoyed giving. I guess that made him happy. He came to the U.S. with a certain bjective in mind. That is, to earn for us. Unfortunately, his poor health didn't let him realize his objectives. He was a strength to us. We love you very much dada, and you will remain with us for the rest of our lives. God Bless your Soul. From your loving family Clive, Sharon & Chris Junior

“ My father Charles Fernando was a loving, giving man who went out of his way to help his family and others at any given opportunity. He never said "no" to anybody and would try to move heaven and earth to fulfill a request. When we were young, he made sure we got a decent education by working hard and sacrificing personal pleasures so we could attend one of the best private schools in Sri Lanka. More than anything else, he made sure, from the time we could understand, know and love God. Growing up, an hour every night was spent in prayer as a family. We were taught to be true to God and ourselves. Our success and the kind of persons we have turned out to be is a reflection on our father and of course, our mother, who is now our support and strength in this sorrowful time.

We love you Dadda and we know that you are with God and looking after us. Life will never be the same without you. We know we will meet again in God's presence. May you rest in peace.
