

Dorothy P. Free Obituary

August 30, 1927 - February 3, 2003

A native of Albany, she was a graduate of Albany High School in 1944. Dot was crowned the Cotton Ball Queen at the Radium Springs Casino in 1944. She attended Asbury College in Wilmore, KY on a music scholarship. She loved to play the piano and organ for many churches where she had lived. In 1958, she married Robert M. Pollock, Sr., who preceded her in death in 1993. A daughter, Kathleen Thompson died in 1995. Dot was instrumental in starting a hospice program in Van Buren County, Iowa after the death of her husband and daughter to cancer. She had lived in various places in the midwest including St. Louis and Kimberling City, MO, Fairfield and Keosauqua, Iowa, where she was residing at the time she married Renno J.(R.J.) Free in 1996. She moved back to Albany following her marriage to Mr. Free. In Albany, she was a member of PEO, Southwest Georgia Exchange Club and Lamad Chapel.

Tribute Wall

“ Dorothy P. Free Obituary

May 22, 2023 at 10:29 AM

“ RJ, I am so sorry to hear of your loss once again. YOu and my dad Chester, Sr. shared many happy moments at the Keystone Bible Class and I remember your kind, caring manner. It is hard to loose loved ones. I will keep you in my prayers , hugs, alisa

alisa anderson penrod - February 15, 2003 at 12:00 AM “ Dot was a great lady and leaves many sweet memories with us. Altho I've never met R.J., he clearly made her very happy and it was a real blessing they found each other. We'll miss her.

Chelsea Thompson - February 09, 2003 at 12:00 AM

“ I shall always remember her as a cheery, fun person, and as a good traveling companion.

Caroline Dickey - February 05, 2003 at 12:00 AM

“ She will truly be missed in our Exchange Club. We will keep you in our prayers.

Tabitha Branch - February 04, 2003 at 12:00 AM