“ Some friends are forever. From the moment Cis greeted me when I transferred to Magnolia Elementary School, I knew I liked her. Our friendship grew and I marveled at her ability to have fun every where she went. Cis was a fun person. When you entered her home you were welcomed, you felt comfortable and you knew you were going to have fun. Our little gang of teaching girls would gather, laugh, toast happy times and hold one another up during the sad times. Cis always stood strong, she did not let you down., she was a friend for life. I truly loved my Southern Lady with an “edge”. One day our gang will gather again and we’ll hug and laugh and have so much fun. Till then dear friend, you and Lawson catch up where you left off.

Much love my forever friend, Sharon

“ To my dear, dear friend...our memories cross so years that I do not know where to begin.
We celebrated the best of times and the worst...births, deaths, illnesses, disagreements but most of all we shared love. I know the Five Witches would give so much to share one more glass of wine on your back deck, talk and laugh around your kitchen table until the wee hours and sit on your front porch and tell the same stories one more time. Our individual journeys have taken us other places but you were always our home. We send you warm love and never ending hugs.

“ Cis Cook always had a smile on her face and full of contagious energy. She and Lawson both knew how to love. I can only imagine the lives she touched teaching school for thirty years, putting up with no nonsense but giving love! She lived across the street when we came back to Albany sorry to have lost touch with her after her move but happy she was close to love ones. Sandra H. Hancock
