I miss you so much already. I know I should have been there for you more, and I'm sorry for that. I'm glad you are no longer suffering, and can finally see all the people that have been waiting for you in heaven. I await the time when I can see you again. The boys miss you, and will never forget you. I love you so much, and I know you will be watching over me the rest of my life. Until we meet again fly high momma.
