“ Oh the memories. You knew me when I was just a little girl with her sisters red lipstick on a bicycle. I don't think you liked me much at first glance. But over the years, I became your daughter Norah's best friend. You had no choice but to put up with me. And I think I grew on you.

Every time we met up over the years you assured me of how proud you were of me. Not in those words, but in your own way. You didn't have to say you were. But I knew.

I also knew how proud you were of your 3 kids and 2 grands. You had your own way of showing your love but anyone who knew you knew that they were your everything. You adored them. While this world will never be quite the same without you in it I hope you knew what a wonderful father and grandfather you were. And also a friend. I will miss you Mr. Fanizzi. I hope you're holding Mrs. Fanazzi tight and preparing a special place for us all. Until we meet again.
