“ I will miss you dearly. I will always remember how you made the best "fried okra" when we came to visit with you and Pa Pa almost every summer when Jeff and I were growing up. I will never forget all of the things you did for us. I am comforted in knowing that you are in God's loving arms now..and..for all...eternity.

“ I first came to know Jessie when her daughter Jeanette and my brother, Wayne, met and married. With her soft Southern accent she was a true daughter of the South. As the years have passed, Jeanette and I have grown very close and I gained the sister I never had. So, thank you, Jessie. I know you will be missed.
