“ I am so saddened to hear about my long time work friend, I met Kay at Decatur Federal in the 80s. She had such a presence! Everyone looked up to her, very knowledgeable and respected. I was proud to say she was my friend. She loved the Lord and is home peacefully with Jesus

“ Rodney, Jennifer and all of your family, my heart is breaking along with yours. Kay was a very special lady. She was a wonderful inspiration in our Sunday School class and our circle. She will be greatly missed with her constant smile and her loving, kind attitude at ALL times. I really appreciated her teaching our Sunday School class. Her lessons always seemed to be talking straight to me. She loved God and lived her life witnessing and worshiping Him. She is now with Him and we can all look forward to seeing her again!

“ Nannie .. you sassy sweetheart of a lady ❤️ I am so heart broken that you're gone. I've been crying for hours because God thought it was time to take you home but us on earth weren't ready to let you go. I really wish I spent more time with you but the little time and memories I do have with you, I will cherish forever.

.. I will miss our chick-fil-a trips. The woman who introduced me to my first frosted lemonade after giving birth to Anessa. To this day, I won't ever get one without you. Because I will always miss your sassy little comments “they better give me diet because I can't have all that sugar” (in the most proper yet sweetest southern voice).

.. I will miss the texts you'd send every once in a while to check on me and the kids. Even though you were dealing with so many health issues you made a point to check on us and that meant so much!

.. I will miss our walks through the mall with Anessa wrapped around your fingers just taking in the scenery.

.. I will miss your heaviest eyeroll on Thanksgiving because grandpa put a slice of cheese on his pie.

.. endless memories with you but of all... I will truly miss you. 💔😭

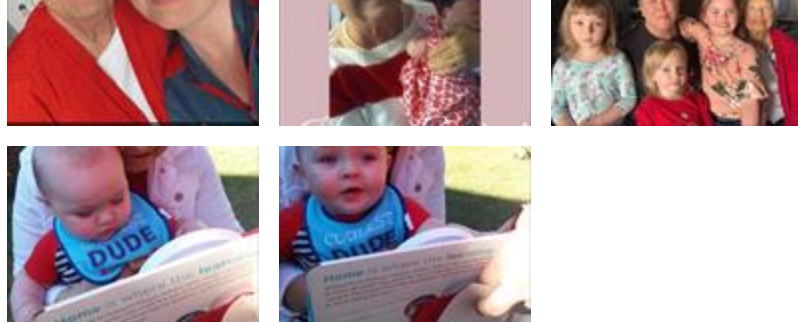

I absolutely ADORED you. I didn't have much of a relationship with my grandmother so I had you. My Nannie from another family ❤️ You were so cute yet so sassy. So proper, yet so savage. You could be dolled up to steal the show on a random tuesday yet provide the sharpest stare to shut anyone up. ... I absolutely ADORED you.

I hope and pray you have the softest most comfortable seat up there in heaven. I hope and pray one day we can see each other again so I can give you the biggest hug that i've been dying to give you today.

I'm thankful you're no longer in pain but I plead to God ... Can i just have one more day with you? 😞

You will be missed so so much, I love you Nannie ❤️
