“ Dear Libby, For as long as we've known each other, I am sorry to say I never had the pleasure of meeting Randy (that I remember, 33 yrs in NY, I've forgotten a lot),...but I send my condolences and prayers. I know he has suffered a long time and you should rest easy, knowing there is no more pain or suffering....you've done your best in caring for him and standing by him. It's not gonna make it any easier for you, but with time, you'll see that. I love you, girl!! Amy, I don't know if you remember me, but me and my kids (you and Alex were born the same day), have experienced this same loss. Hang in there and remember the good times, your Daddy will always be with you. XO

“ Dear Libby, my heart aches for you and your loss of Randy. I just lost my husband of 44 years and know all too well the feelings. I had several classes with Randy in high school. He was one of those special guys with a heart of compassion and care for others. His smile was contagious and his sense of humor brought a smile to the face of all those he encountered. I'm sure that Randy left you with a rich legacy of memories to draw from... Remember them, embrace them and allow them to carry you along this journey to a place of peace and gratitude for the love you were able to share. You and yours remain in my thoughts and prayers.

“ I was visiting Albany last week and was sad to learn of Randy's death. I fondly remember him from elementary, junior high and high school days when we played together on multiple sports teams. He was a terrific athlete and, even at our young age I remember him as a true leader who was admired and respected. I can easily picture his big smile and frequent laugh. He had a positive energy about him that made everyone around him feel good. I regret that I lost track of Randy after high school, however, the nice comments about him on this site are consistent with the great guy I remember.

“ Libby it is with great sorrow that I viewed the obituary of your husband. I never had the pleasure of meeting him but if you thought enough of him to marry him he had to be a pretty great guy. I wish to express my sympathy for your loss and let you know that you will be in my thoughts and prayers.
