“ I remember living across from Ron and Betty and what wonderful neighbors they were. I remember we had just moved in the neighborhood in 1979 and one of their boys Randy I believe threw a party for friends and I just remember how impressed I was that the boys were out early the next morning cleaning up the yard. What I did not realize until I told Betty and Ron was they the parents were not home the night of the party. I think I got someone in trouble. Ron was such a sweet heart and we love him and Betty dearly. I will always have fond memories of them as neighbors.

“ Our childhood is becoming even more of a memory with the passing of Ronald, but it is a happy memory of family that provides strength. The Cheney clan was independent yet fiercely loyal and loving. We may be spread far and wide these days but I hope the germ of Aunt Helen's and Mother's generation stays alive through their descendants. I know Ronald held the flame of family love high.
