“ Dear John and Leigh,

I was so sorry to hear about your Mom. I met Sylvia while I was working at Curves. I started working there a year after we lost our Megan suddenly back in 2003 at age 14. Sylvia became a friend and it always brought a smile to my face when she would come in to work out. So many people helped me during my greiving process in more ways than you can imagine....she was one of those precious people!

I am sorry that I did not hear about her death until after the funeral. I greatly appreciate her remembering Megan's House for a memorial. Sylvia was very supportive of this wonderful respite home named after our Megan. It really touched my heart when I heard that this was one of her desired ways to be remembered.

Please know that she will be missed. I pray God's comfort and peace to be with you and your family.

“ John & Leigh,

My prayers and special thoughts are with you as grieve over the loss of your mother. She always showed her love and pride towards both of you from the time you were small children until the present as you have become successful adults. i know you will miss her as will so many others; however, I believe that she will always be looking down from Heaven and smiling about how special you are and how proud of your life achievements. Your mother may be gone from you at this time, but I am sure that you will see her again in Heaven,

I encourage both of you to stay close for one another and share great things that life gives to you.

*With great love,
Marshall*

“ Seeing Sylvia at estate sales I applauded her care of magnificent 4th Ave oak. A diverse, very intelligent, amazingly well read lady you could discuss most anything with her. She refused Computers. I’d find used [usually history/biography] books she “coveted” from DOCO Library. I’d order her a copy & she’d pay in full immediately. We disagreed on football [her Auburn and my LSU] & some historic people or events. But discussions were great. While usually scholarly, she loving talked of her children and grands. Helping me get to my medical appointments she was invaluable. “One day,” Sylvia said, “I’ll ask more from you than I am giving.” Although private in her Cancer battle, she trusted me enough to help her a little early on. Still my debt isn’t repaid in full, so I’ll continue driving by “Sylvia Tree” remembering her as a unique person and profoundly interesting friend.
