“ I will miss my Daddy more than any words can express. He had an illness, but was doing so well that I was hopeful that he would live for several more years. I did not get my wish. I can only hope that he is no longer in pain, that he is able to laugh out loud, joke around and be surrounded by many, many souls who truly appreciate the fine man that he was. My heart is broken but to have him back now would be selfish on my part. I have to accept that it was his time to go and that he now feels no pain or sadness.

I love you and will miss you, Daddy. Thank you for everything (large and small) that you added to my life. Thank you also for the many wonderful memories that I will carry with me always.
